1. A list containing about 18,000 names of undesirable individuals in the Gdynia, Gdansk and Sopot areas has been prepared. These persons are pre-war regular officers, policemen, members of the AK (Home Army), and private businessmen.
2. Such persons are to leave their residences by the end of 1950. Up to April 1950, approximately 1,000 persons had been ordered to evacuate their homes in the coastal area.
3. An order to move gives the individual one to ten days' notice. If he has not left by that time, he is arrested. The order does not designate a new dwelling, and no effort is made by the authorities to furnish one. If the head of a family is directed to move, his entire family is included regardless of the age of any member or his position.
4. A person served with such an order is not allowed to live in Voievodship capitals after he leaves the coastal area and he is unable to obtain employment in a government institution or enterprise.
